Welcome

Welcome to the first issue of Career4Women project newsletter. This issue includes a first introduction to the project, its aims and its expected results as well as a presentation of the project partners.

Aim

The central aim of the project is to derive an efficient career support tool for the women who had a career break and need adaptation to contemporary business life.

In this context, the project aims at: to increase the awareness of contemporary business needs in the target group; encourage them to return to the workforce with the help of a special training having a dedicated curriculum, and provide them with necessary tools to facilitate reemployment and/or entrepreneurship.
